Numb. 194.

THE Pennſylvania GAZETTE.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

From Monday, Auguſt 7. to Monday, Auguſt 14. 1732.

Hague, April 8.

ALL our Advices from Vienna agree, that the Emperor begins, tho' a little of the lateſt, to take Umbrage at the Military Preparations of the Spaniards. He now perceives, that the King of Spain exhauſts his Treaſures in favour of the Infante Duke; and that he is making the utmoſt Efforts to ſend a formidable Fleet to Sea with 30 or 40000 of his beſt Troops: He perceives that the good Intelligence between the two Crowns of France and Spain unveils itſelf more and more every day; and that the ſeeming Broils which happened between them laſt Year, are now out of the Queſtion: In a Word, he perceives that France is now arming underhand; and he hears that ſhe deſigns to join her Forces with thoſe of Spain. All theſe Things put together, break the Emperor's Reſt, and give him a great deal of Uneaſineſs.

It is ſtill reported, and with more Confidence than ever, that the principal View of the Spaniſh Armament is, to poſſeſs themſelves of the Iſland of Corſica, with the Conſent of the Rebels, who have long ſince devoted themſelves ſecretly to the Infante Don Carlos. It is without all Controverſy, that their moſt Chriſtian and Catholick Majeſties have furniſhed them with conſiderable Succors of Men, Money, and Ammunition: And the Affectation with which France complains of the pretended Inſult offered to her Flag by the Genoeze, and the Satisfaction ſhe demands for the ſame, ſhew plainly enough, that ſhe ſeeks a Quarrel with that Republick.

They write from Vienna, that the Emperor had talked very roundly to the Duke of Liria, concerning the Armament of the Crown of Spain; and declared to him, that he would not ratify the new Regulations made for the Settlement of Don Carlos in Italy, till he knows the Views of his Catholick Majeſty, and whither his Armada is bound. The Duke anſwered him with a ſort of Rhodomontade; and his Imperial Majeſty diſpatched an Expreſs to London, to communicate his Thoughts to the King of Great Britain; and to deſire him to prevent all Surprize on the Part of Spain. Theſe Things make us fancy ourſelves upon the Vigil of a War.

Hague, April 4. The Emperor ſeeing himſelf as it were between two Fires, threatened on the Side of Turky, and not ſecure on that of Italy, is reſolved to take all the Precautions in his Power to prevent the fatal Effects of theſe ill Omens. His Imperial Majeſty has therefore renewed his Orders for compleating the Fortifications of Belgrade and Temeſwaer; thoſe important Places, which cover the Kingdom of Hungary, and even the Capital of the Empire itſelf: And the Imperial Miniſters are daily ſending down the Danube all Sorts of Ammunition and Proviſions, to ſtore the Magazines of thoſe Fortreſſes, and enable them to ſtand any Shock the Ottomans can give them: For it is unqueſtionably true, that there are certain Powers of Chriſtendom, not more Chriſtian than their Neighbours, who are continually baiting the prime Vizier to ſignalize his new Miniſtry by a vigorous War with the Emperor of the Romans. This would make a powerful Diverſion indeed, if France and Spain have formed the Deſign to attack any of the Emperor's Dominions in Italy: But whether they have or not, there is Reaſon to believe, the Rebels of Corſica have been ſupported by thoſe two Crowns; and therefore his Imperial Majeſty has ordered a new reinforcement thither, with a good General at their Head; chooſing rather that that Iſland ſhould remain as it is, than that it ſhould add any new Title to the Poſſeſſions of the Infante Don Carlos.

Moreover, they are very uneaſy at the Imperial Court, to know whether that young Prince will receive the Inveſtiture of the Dutchies of Parma and Placentia of the Pope, according to his Holineſs's Offer: But if we may credit ſome Advices, ſhe does not deſign to receive that Inveſtiture either from the Pope or the Emperor.

Beſides the Title of Chariſſimo Fratri, which the the Infante Duke gave the Emperor, upon the Superſcription of his Letter, he added the Word Sereniſſimo inſtead of Auguſtiſſimo: But the ſaid Letter was ſent back, and Don Carlos was given to underſtand, that the Imperial Court could not help being diſpleaſed at ſuch ſort of Treatment, which was not at all becoming a Prince dependant upon his Imperial Majeſty: That they looked upon it, however, as a pardonable Miſtake for the firſt Time; but that they would receive no more Letters ſo directed.

We are told that the Infante Duke, in his Letters to the Princes of Italy, has likewiſe given them Titles no way ſuitable to their Dignity; whereupon they have alſo ſent them back without opening.

Private Letters from Leghorn aſſure us, that the Spaniards have at leaſt 12000 Men in Porto Longone and that Neighbourhood.

Venice, April 18. Letters from Conſtantinople of the 10th paſt, bring Advice, that the Grand Seignior, upon Peruſal of the Treaty concluded between the Baſhaw of Babylon and the Sophy of Perſia, finding the Ceſſion of Tauris compriz'd therein, demurr'd to that Article, and called a Divan before he proceeded to the Ratification, wherein, after warm Debates, 'twas reſolved, 'That having veſted the ſaid Baſhaw with full Powers, to refuſe ſigning it was inconſiſtent with the Honour of the Empire; that it redounded as much to the Glory of his ſublime Highneſs, as 'twas agreeable to his Subjects, to begin his Reign with Peace after ſo expenſive and bloody a War, and which had coſt ſo much Blood of the Muſſulmen.' Upon which the Sultan ſign'd the Treaty.

Our laſt Accounts from the Levant, ſay they enjoy a great Meaſure of Health in thoſe Parts; but according to thoſe from Dalmatia, the Plague continues ſtill raging in the Turkiſh Albania.

London, May 3. Yeſterday a Man Dwarf, who lately came from Denmark, and is not quite three Foot high, was preſented to their Majeſties at St. James's, as alſo to the Royal Family, and was much admired. He ſtood under the Arm of the Duke of Cumberland, with which his Royal Highneſs was much pleaſed.

Vienna, May 3. A Courier is arrived from Corſica, with Advice, that the Imperialiſts having gained ſome Advantage over the Malcontents in a late Action near Calvi, Prince Lewis of Wirtemberg took that Occaſion to make them a freſh Offer of a general Pardon upon Submiſſion; to which they anſwered, that not a Man among them thought of Submitting, but deſired their Liberty and Lives might go together.

The News from Conſtantinople of the Prime Vizir being depoſed, is very agreeable to this Court, inaſmuch as he was a great Friend of Count Bonneval and Prince Ragotski, who have left no Stone unturn'd to kindle a War with Chriſtendom.

Berlin, May 3. On the 13th paſt, the Proteſtant Refugees of Saltzburgh, to the Number of 1100, arrived at Potſdam, being met at ſome Diſtance by the Clergy who return'd at the Head of them, and paſſed the ſame Day in Review before his Majeſty. The King has ſent Orders into Pruſſia, for ſeveral Villages to be built for them, and a Miniſter to be ſettled in every Village. The King has likewiſe ſent Orders to the Roman Catholick Clergy of Magdeburg, Minden and Halberſtadt, to ſend an exact Account of their Revenues. 'Tis believed he deſigns to apply them to the Maintenance of the Proteſtant Refugees of Saltzburgh.

Vienna, May 3. Some Letters from Conſtantinople mention, that the Grand Viſier had been depoſed at the Inſtances of the Janizaries. We ſee here an exact Liſt of the Imperial Troops, according to which it appears, ſuppoſing the Regiments are compleat, that there are actually, in Auſtria, 17,242 Men, viz. 11,500 Foot, 2871 Cuiraſſiers, and 2871 Dragoons. In Hungary, 39,169 Men, viz. 23,000 Foot, 10,523 Cuiraſſiers, 4789 Dragoons, and 857 Huſſars. In Tranſilvania, 12,071 Men, viz. 9200 Foot, and 2871 Cuiriaſſiers. In Sicily, 10,057 Men, viz. 9200 Foot, and 857 Huſſars. In the Kingdom of Naples, 13,414 Men, viz. 11,500 Foot, and 1914 Cuiraſſiers. In Lombardy and the Iſland of Corſica, 23,471 Men, viz. 18,400 Foot, 2300 Heydukes, 1914 Dragoons, and 857 Huſſars. On the Rhine, 6900 Foot. In Luxemburgh and the Netherlands, 11,200 Foot, 2871 Curiaſſiers. Total, 143,295 Men, viz. 107,200 Foot, 2300 Heydukes, 21,054 Cuiriaſſiers, 9570 Dragoons, and 1571 Huſſars.

London, May 10. Yeſterday a Board of Admiralty was held at the Admiralty-Office, when Captain Edward Falkingham, Commander of his Majeſty's Ship the Salisbury, a 4th Rate of 50 Guns and 280 Men, was appointed to go Commodore to Newfoundland, in order to protect the Fiſhery; and his Majeſty's Ship the Durſley Galley, a Sixth Rate of 20 Guns and 130 Men, Capt. Smith Commander, is to go along with him for the ſame purpoſe.

London, May 11. They write from Mitchel Dean in the County of Glouceſter, that on Friday the 28th of April paſt, between the Hours of Seven and Eight in the Evening (as is ſuppoſed) one Thomas Turberville, of that Town, Carpenter, was in a moſt barbarous and inhumane Manner murdered in his own Shop, having his Brains beat out, and his Scull chop'd to Pieces with a Broad-Ax: The Deceas'd being a Widower, liv'd alone, and was not found till Saturday Evening, when the Ax was laying by him bloody. A Weaver of the ſaid Town is taken up on Suſpicion, having been obſerved between the Hours above mentioned to follow the ſaid Turberville into his Houſe, and the Deceaſed was not ſeen afterwards, till found in the Manner aforeſaid; and when the ſuppoſed Murderer was on Examination before fore the Coroner, a Pair of Stockings and a Shirt were found upon him, upon which he was committed to Glouceſter Caſtle.

Paris, May 14. Letters from Barcelona of the 23d paſt, mention the Return of four of the ſix Spaniſh Gallies from Leghorn on the [illegible]th, with a Corſair, which they attacked whilſt ſhe was in purſuit of a Pink coming from Italy. The Corſair made a brave Defence, being mounted with 14 Guns, and as many Pattareroes, and having 105 Men on board, 22 whereof, ſaid to be Renegadoes. ſaved themſelves in the Chaloupe on the Coaſt of France; the reſt were all kill'd or taken.

Frankfort, May 14. The French having mark'd out a Camp between Metz and Thionville, they talk of forming one of the Imperialiſts on the Neckar, by Way of Precaution. Some Imperial Troops have enter'd old Briſac and Fribourg, to replace the Regiment of Aliaudule, gone into Hungary.

Hambourgh, June 9. Count Seckendorf, who is arrived here from Copenhagen, is well pleaſed with the Succeſs of his Negociations, having, 'tis ſaid, concluded an Offenſive and Defenſive Alliance between the Emperor, the Czarina, the King of Denmark, and (as ſome ſay) the King of Great Britain.

London, June 13. Our Court have News of the King's ſafe Arrival in Holland. This Day her Majeſty, who is appointed ſole Regent, will take the Oaths in Council.

Philadelphia, Auguſt 12. Yeſterday Afternoon, our Governor having received by Expreſs the agreeable News of the Arrival of the Honourable THOMAS PENN, Eſq; our Proprietary, at Cheſter, immediately diſpatch'd his Secretary thither with his Compliments of Congratulation; and next Morning, attended by the Council, and many other Gentlemen, His Honour our Governor ſet out for Cheſter, where great Numbers of People from the neighbouring Parts of the Country were flocking together. After Dinner, our Honourable Proprietor, with his Company which was now grown very numerous, ſet out for Philadelphia, and paſſing the Ferry at Skuylkill, was met by the Mayor, Recorder and Aldermen of this City, in whoſe Name Andrew Hamilton, Eſq; the Recorder, made the following congratulatory Speech.

May it pleaſe our Honourable Proprietor,

THE Mayor and Commonalty of the City of Philadelphia, do moſt joyfully congratulate You, on your ſafe Arrival into your Province of Pennſylvania.

You are now entring into the Liberties of the City of Philadelphia, the Capital of your Province, where You have been long and impatiently expected: Be pleaſed, Sir, to accept from this Corporation, the Acknowledgements due to a Son of its Honourable Founder.

That generous Charter which he gave this City, thoſe wiſe and juſt Laws which he gave to the People of Pennſylvania, and above all his religious Care in ſecuring to all its Inhabitants that natural Right Liberty of Conſcience, and Freedom from Spiritual Tyranny, will ever continue a Teſtimony of his great Wiſdom and Goodneſs, in framing a Conſtitution every way fitted to make a happy People, and be a laſting Monument of his Benevolence to Mankind.

But he is gone! --- and to whom can we ſo properly own theſe Obligations, as to the Deſcendants of that good Man, under whom, next to our gracious Sovereign, the Inhabitants of Philadelphia derive and enjoy ſo many valuable Privileges.

We are indeed ſtrongly prejudiced in favour of a Son of the great Mr. PENN; We know you have the ſame Powers of Government, and if You ſhall imitate his excellent Example, in uſing them for the Good of the People, as that made his Memory dear to all who lived under his Influence, ſo this will give you a peculiar Claim to Our Duty and Affections, and lay the Citizens of Philadelphia under the ſtrongeſt Obligations of doing you the moſt acceptable Services in their Power.

To which our Honourable Proprietor gave the following Anſwer.

" I am oblig'd to the City of Philadel-
" phia, for this Mark of their Affection to " me, and Regard for the Memory of my " Father; and ſhall be pleaſed with every " Opportunity of doing your Corporation
" any agreeable Service.

The Proprietor then proceeding forwards, was welcomed to this City with the Diſcharge of many Guns from the Ships in our River, and the joyful Acclamations of a Multitude of People, who lined all the Streets through which the Cavalcade (conſiſting of between Seven and Eight Hundred Horſe) paſſed; and alighting at our Governour's Houſe, was ſaluted with the Diſcharge of a large Battery of Cannon on Society Hill. The univerſal Joy and Satisfaction which appeared on this Occaſion, ſeems a juſt Tribute to a worthy Son of the Great and Good Mr. PENN, whoſe Memory muſt ever remain dear to all thoſe who ſet a juſt Value on the ample Privileges and Liberties granted by him, and at this Time fully enjoyed by all the Inhabitants of this flouriſhing Colony.

The next Day between the Hours of 11 and 12, his Excellency walked to the City Hall, (a Company of Halberdiers, and a Troop of Horse marching before, and the Gentlemen of His Majesty's Council, the Corporation, and a great Number of the Gentlemen and Merchants of this City following, the Streets being lin'd on each Side by the Militia) where his Commission was published; and then his Excellency returned (attended as before) back to the Fort: The Militia then drew up on the Parade, and saluted him with 3 Vollies.
